

CERTIFIED ATHLETIC TRAINER INJURY TRIAGE

Every year, workplace injuries quietly drain productivity and budgets, especially when an employee is sent to a clinic or ER “just to be safe.” Those visits almost always evolve into workers’ comp claims, raising your OSHA recordables, EMR score, and total cost of risk.

There’s a Better Way.

DORN’s AT Triage service combines certified athletic trainers and advanced real-time injury assessment to keep your workforce safe, productive, and out of the clinic.

Keep 85–95% of Cases in First Aid.

Most nurse hotlines keep only 20–50% of cases in first aid.

Ours? 85–95% stay first aid.

That’s the difference a Certified Athletic Trainer (ATC) makes. While nurses are generalists, ATCs specialize in musculoskeletal care, the exact injuries that dominate industrial environments: sprains, strains, repetitive stress, and overexertion.

Instead of sending your employees off-site, our trainers deliver:

- 24/7 support.
- Real-time biomechanical assessments
- First-aid guidance for MSDs and soft-tissue injuries
- Immediate ergonomic adjustments and safe return-to-work plans

Why Choose Athletic Trainer Triage

Because your people deserve experts who understand their work.

Athletic Trainers are movement specialists.

They see the how, not just the what, analyzing posture, strain, and repetition to pinpoint causes and deliver first aid on the spot. That means fewer claims, faster recoveries, and more trust from your workforce.
